

Joanne Laufenberg is a constitutional conservative, policy advocate and home educator who's lived in southeastern Wisconsin since birth. As a youth helper at Calvary Community Church and the Convention of States Wisconsin Volunteer Director over the past six years, the need to restore local and personal authority in Walworth County's system of governance became increasingly evident. Avid support from residents confirmed this. If you value small government and regular communication about what occurs in county administration, text or email her at 414-750-0327 and jola4wi@gmail.com for an invitation to the Walworth County Freedom group.
